

Re: Hello! Inbox x

Poornima [Redacted]

Tue, Jul 12, 3:14 PM

to me, Regis ▾

Hi Cindy:

Good to meet you. How can i help?

Poornima

↩ Reply

↩↩ Reply all

➦ Forward

Re: Hello! Poornima and Regis

Cindy Ragusa

To: Poornima <

Tue, Jul 12, 2022 at 4:26 PM

[REDACTED]

Hi Poornima and Regis,

Great to meet you as well.

I am copying in the others. I'm sure there will be much to talk about.

Cindy

On Tue, Jul 12, 2022 at 3:14 PM Poornima <

[REDACTED] wrote:
Hi Cindy:

Good to meet you. How can i help?

Poornima

Re: Hello! Poornima and Regis

William Huston

Tue, Jul 12, 2022 at 4:59 PM

Hello Poornima,

Welcome!

I suspect people will want to reach out to you privately...

I'll just say your latest program with Regis was met with a lot of excitement and intense discussion these last few days!

Looking forward to learning more about you!

Best Regards,

WH

Re: Hello! Poornima and Regis

Christine Massey <cmssyc@gmail.com>

Tue, Jul 12, 2022 at 5:52 PM

Hi Poornima!

I so thoroughly enjoyed your presentation to Regis re the fake virus - wow!!

Perhaps we could arrange a group zoom call or something along those lines to get to know you better and learn more about the failed attempt to find "SARS-COV-2".

One thing we've been especially wondering is whether there are any plans to release documentation? We would love to be able to add something about this to the worldwide collection of "no virus" documents. In a sane world it would be the final nail in the coffin. It would open many eyes, to be sure.

Cheers,
Christine

Re: Hello! Poornima and Regis

Mike Stone <

Tue, Jul 12, 2022 at 5:58 PM

Hi Poornima and Regis,

I would like to second what Christine said. Thank you for the presentation and welcome to our group. It would be great to do a zoom call some time. 😊

-Mike Stone

Re: Hello! Poornima and Regis

Jeff Strahl

Tue, Jul 12, 2022 at 6:47 PM

Hello Poornima, and Regis,

Seconding what Christine says below.

Be good,

Jeffrey

[Quoted text hidden]

Re: Hello! Poornima and Regis

Poornima

Tue, Jul 12, 2022 at 7:26 PM

Hi Christine:

Yes, would love to chat on Zoom. As far as your question on publishing the documentation, our lab, actually, one of our post docs who's dealing with the publishing of the study reached out to the Danish Medical Journal (our 21st attempt) to publish, but they rejected the draft in late October 2021. At this point we're looking at publishing the study privately. We have a publisher that has "conditionally" accepted to publish out of Texas. We will know in the next 2 months if this pans out.

As far as my schedule goes, I'm planning on a road trip to Yellowstone early next week to get away from Santa Barbara and as a bonus, have a closer look at the Prismatic pools there which grow colonies of a bacteria called Thermus aquaticus which in turn produces Taq polymerase, the enzyme that is used as a protein de-naturing component in the PCR test for the "FICTION" virus. I don't think most people who visit the park even know what they're looking at.

Looking forward to chatting with you all.

Poornima

[Quoted text hidden]

Re: Hello! Poornima and Regis

Cindy Ragusa

Tue, Jul 12, 2022 at 8:25 PM

That's fascinating about the Thermus aquaticus discovery and its link to Kary Mullis.

Maybe you've seen this already...

Rediscovering Yellowstone - Tom Brock

<https://youtu.be/YdkTW30Gv64>

As an ecologist, when Tom Brock first visited Yellowstone National Park in the mid 1960's, he saw the colorful hot springs in a different way than most. He was stunned by the microbes present there that no one seemed to know anything about. His research that followed uncovered a previously unknown characteristic of life — the ability for bacteria to live in near-boiling water. The existence of these organisms would later lead to groundbreaking discoveries in the fields of microbiology and genetics.

Tom's recent book about his research, "A Scientist in Yellowstone National Park", can be found here:

<http://bit.ly/2m3tahk>

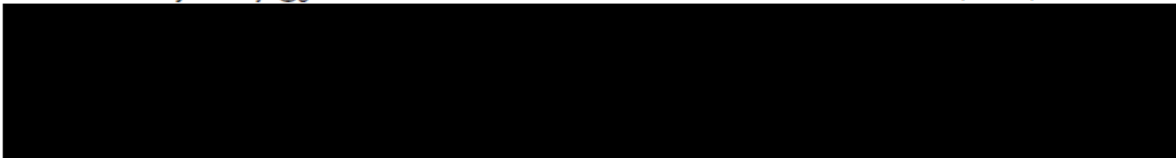

Video by Craig Wild/University Communications

[Quoted text hidden]

Re: Hello! Poornima and Regis

Christine Massey <cmssyc@gmail.com>

Tue, Jul 12, 2022 at 8:32 PM

Oh yes Poornima, forgive me - you did mention in your presentation that you've tried dozens of times to publish your results and that you're considering publishing privately.

No surprise at the unwillingness of publishers to "go there" with your history-making findings!!

Wonderful that you will get away from the city to enjoy some natural wonders... and the rest of us can enjoy Cindy's video for now :)

It will be super to connect with you when your schedule allows.

All the best and safe journey,
Christine

[Quoted text hidden]

Re: Hello! Poornima and Regis

Poornima <

Tue, Jul 12, 2022 at 8:56 PM

Christine:

I think the history making work of proving there is NO VIRUS was done by you, Tom Cowan, Andy Kaufman and Stefan Lanka. You all paved the way for people to even understand the concept that viruses do not exist. Period. I'm just doing my job as a lab scientist. I wish more people in my line of work would grow a spine and expose this fraud. But thanks to all the above named, we are now having these very important conversations which were not possible before. So thank you for exposing the fraud and bringing this virus myth to light.

Speak to you all soon!

Poornima

[Quoted text hidden]

"virus challenge", and zoom call?

Christine Mas
To: Poornima

Sat, Jul 16, 2022 at 10:27 AM

Hi Poornima!

I think you probably know about [REDACTED] and their [REDACTED] to expose the "no virus" reality. [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] mentioned you to me and is very excited about you and your lab work, and would love to be in touch with you. Would it be OK if I e-introduce you to him? [REDACTED] are incredible and I've been in touch with them for quite a while now.

Also, fyi yesterday Tom Cowan and Mark Bailey did a live launch of a "virus challenge" (attached) that a group of us had collaborated on in the last few weeks (I did a short article on it here, with video from yesterday): <https://www.fluoridefreepeel.ca/how-to-settle-the-virus-debate/>.

We realize that once your lab work is published this "challenge" won't be needed, but decided to go ahead with it until then.

We're not really expecting any labs to take up the challenge (since honest labs would get shut down!), but this will serve as another tool to show how weak the methods of virology are - if they aren't even willing to put their own methods to a simple test :)

Finally, Andy Kaufman and Tom Cowan suggested that I ask if you might be free in the afternoon of Monday, July 25 for a conference call - perhaps 30 minutes for you to tell more about your lab work and 30 minutes for Q and A, or whatever format would work best for you.

Others could also join in (i.e. Mark Bailey, Dr. Kevin Corbett, Mike Stone, myself) or it could be just Andy and/or Tom, or whatever you prefer. And if you agreed, it could be recorded and made public - again whatever you might prefer.

Cheers and have a wonderful trip next week :)
Christine

 SETTLING THE VIRUS DEBATE - Source document.pdf
104K

[REDACTED] "virus challenge", and zoom call?

Poornima [REDACTED]
To: Christine [REDACTED]

Sat, Jul 16, 2022 at 3:59 PM

Hi Christine:

Yes you can e-introduce me to [REDACTED] I'm still trying to figure out my Yellowstone itinerary as I decided I wanted to get away in nature away from the stress and madness here in Santa Barbara and possibly take 3 weeks off. During which time I would not use my computer or phone much.

I also have some major family health issues going on from people who took the injections and boosters and I'm dealing with that mess as well. Can we possibly move the Zoom meeting with Andy, Tom and others to August? I apologize for the delay, but I do need to go to Yellowstone at some point and deal with the family issues also.

Thanks for your patience!

Poornima

[Quoted text hidden]

[REDACTED] "virus challenge", and zoom call?

Christine Ma

To: Poornima [REDACTED]

Sat, Jul 16, 2022 at 4:17 PM

Hi Poornima,

No worries, I totally understand :)

Have a wonderful trip, and all the best with your family members - I really hope they get sorted out and are healthy and well.

We'll touch base again later in August.

Take care!

Christine

Re: Any takers on the viral challenge!

Poornima <
To: Christine

Wed, Aug 3, 2022 at 9:45 PM

Hi Christine:

Curious to know if there were any takers on the virus isolation challenge? How about private labs? anything from them?

Re: Any takers on the viral challenge!

Christine Massey [REDACTED]

Wed, Aug 3, 2022 at 10:03 PM

To: Poornima [REDACTED]

Hi Poornima,

The only taker that I know of is the idiot Kevin McCairn, who automatically disqualified himself by insisting publicly that he be involved... in a challenge involving 5 blinded labs that cannot know which other labs are participating. LOL!! Priceless!!

How are you doing? I hope you got a chance to rest up and de-stress a bit :)

Any time you are ready for that zoom call, let us know. It can be with whoever you prefer to talk to, we wouldn't try to force the entire group of us onto you all at once :)

XOXOXO

Re: Any takers on the viral challenge!

Poornima <[REDACTED]>
To: Christine <[REDACTED]>

Mon, Aug 15, 2022 at 1:16 AM

Hi Christine:

Not ignoring your e-mails, just overwhelmed with family, and other stuff. Still trying to get the study published not just privately but my dad has a virologist friend at the National Institute of Virology in Pune, India who recently retired and reached out to me to make suggestions about publishing the isolation study in one of the journals in India. We've sent him the draft copy to see if any of the journals in India will bite at all.

I will let you know about the Zoom call for sure. Quick question in the meantime: I was told that your group had 500K in pledges. If that is the case instead of putting out a virus challenge, why not hire a lab, 3 to 4 post docs and referee their work closely in the lab to make sure they're doing the correct form of isolation and purification and then self publish the findings. This would solve both problems, one of the virus challenge and second shutting up idiots like Steve Kirsch and other twats for good.

Just my two cents to make your case full proof and invulnerable. Please let me know what you think. Thanks!

Poornima

[Quoted text hidden]

Re: Any takers on the viral challenge!

Christine Ma
To: Poornima

Mon, Aug 15, 2022 at 8:17 AM

Hi Poornima,

No worries, I understand about being overwhelmed!!

Would you mind if I share this message with my close colleagues - Cowan/Kaufman/Kevin Corbett/Mark Bailey etc and see what they say? Tom and Mark are the main people behind the challenge.

XOXOX

[Quoted text hidden]

Re: Any takers on the viral challenge!

Poornima <[REDACTED]>
To: Christine [REDACTED]

Mon, Aug 15, 2022 at 12:30 PM

Yes, absolutely. Please let me know what they say about hiring a lab and getting some post docs to do the work. In fact, i had heard Andy Kaufman talk about this on a show with him, Tom and someone else several months ago. Also, how about Getting Stefan Lanka to help out? He's a virologist, maybe his contacts in Europe could help get this done in a lab in Europe under close supervision of Lanka and his colleagues. Just throwing out thoughts.

[Quoted text hidden]

Re: Any takers on the viral challenge!

Christine Ma [REDACTED]
To: Poornima [REDACTED]

Mon, Aug 15, 2022 at 5:29 PM

How about I copy you so that you can converse with the others (or just Tom, Andy and Mark) directly? It's Tom and Andy who have been in direct contact with Lanka, I have never had any direct communication with him. I'm not sure if any of the others have.

XO

[Quoted text hidden]

No response from Poornima

are you free for a zoom call September 1st or 6th?

Christine Massey <cmssyc@gmail.com>

Thu, Aug 25, 2022 at 6:47 PM

To:

Hi Poornima :)

I hope this finds you well. You've been busy with several new interviews, I have some catching up to do :)

We're just wondering if you might be free for a zoom call on Thurs September 1st or Tues September 6th?

Below are our individual and group availabilities. Hopefully there will be a time that works for you, but if not we'll figure something else out.

Cheers and take care,
Christine

Based on EST:

No response from Poornima

Eric F Coppelino

August 25, 2022 at 3:25 PM

EC

!! PRESS QUERY !! PACIFICA RADIO NETWORK

To: poornimawagh@startmail.com

Dear Poornima:

I've been following your adventures the past couple of months and finally have a moment to congratulate you and say hello.

I'm a senior producer for Pacifica Radio's program Planet Waves FM. We have a few distinctions; one is that we are the only program on the network that has been on the counter-spin angle. Most of my colleagues are Gung Ho Virus. I've been around so long, I am left alone to do my thing, if I have credible guests. And you seem to be one.

Our other distinction is how many people have passed through the studio early in their ascent to prominence on the Covid issue. These include Stephanie Seneff of MIT, David Rasnick (of AIDS-era scientific fame, close colleague of Peter Deusberg); pioneering AIDS journalist Celia Farber; psychiatrist Dr. Peter Breggin; several of the signers of the Retraction Paper you mentioned a couple of times — Kevin Corbett, Bobby Malhotra, Kevin McKernan and others.

Please let me know if you're interested in appearing as a guest on the program. Thank you for considering. I am looking forward to hearing from you.

You will have a free-reign to speak before an informed audience that knows enough to take you seriously.

Yours truly,

Eric Francis Coppelino

Planet Waves FM - Pacifica Radio Network

I'm sorry about Eric

Christine Ma
To: Poornima

Mon, Aug 29, 2022 at 3:27 PM

Hi Poornima,

I am feeling sick over this and I pray it gets sorted out respectfully and privately.

There have been concerns within our (informal) group over not being able to find a record of any PhDs or thesis, and details of things you have said in interviews, and there is a strong fear/concern that if your story turned out to have holes then it would reflect badly on the entire movement to expose virology/germ theory.

I have indicated to the group that I oppose the idea of making any public comment about this.

I did not want you to feel mistrusted or that you were being interrogated and am sorry this has happened.

xoxo

I'm sorry about Eric

Poornima [REDACTED]
To: Christine Massey [REDACTED]

Mon, Aug 29, 2022 at 5:29 PM

On Monday, August 29, 2022 12:27 PM, Christine Massey <cmssyc@gmail.com> wrote:

Hi Poornima,

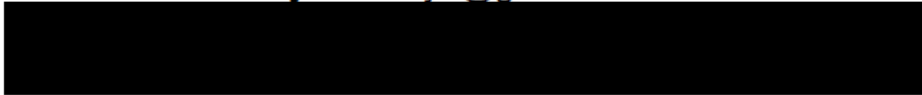

I am feeling sick over this and I pray it gets sorted out respectfully and privately.

There have been concerns within our (informal) group over not being able to find a record of any PhDs or thesis, and details of things you have said in interviews, and there is a strong fear/concern that if your story turned out to have holes then it would reflect badly on the entire movement to expose virology/germ theory.

Answer: this is precisely why i had suggested that you use the 500k in pledges to get the isolation studies done, film it in a lab and release it as a film and as a private paper so that you guys prove your point and are safe from bad press. Now do you understand why i was suggesting that? If you feel that I'm a fraud, then please distance yourself from me. In fact, i suggest that you guys do not associate with me at all for your protection. In fact, you're safe because your group has not done any interviews with me, so if i get thrown to the wolves, you are still safe. However, exposing me publicly as a fraud, can get you in a lot of hot water like a lawsuit for harassment. I'm not saying I'm going to sue you. But if you want to prove your point, please hire a group to do the virus isolation yourselves because i can assure you no labs public or private will take your challenge and i think you know that. It is up to you what your decision is. For right now no contact with me is the best way forward. I was asked by Regis, in fact pestered to do the power points since April 2021, hence i did. I have not said anything over the last 2 years because I've paid a very heavy price for my work. This is why i'm trying to publish in India because there is a growing sentiment of no virus amongst scientists there and the journals there might actually be open to publishing our lab findings. The west is completely bereft of any true scientific accumen, it is more about ego stroking than science, it is just a joke here. Eric and Kevin Corbett have opened up a can of worms for no rhyme or reason. I was not even affiliated with your group, going after me comes across as harassment. If i was and am a fraud, i can assure you that the general public watching my power points and interviews, their BS meter would've gone into full fraud mode, but the opposite is happening. More and more people are realizing all over the world and have known there is no virus and never was and what I'm saying is resonating with them, so that is acgually helping your cause not taking away from it. So exposing me as a fraud will actually do more damage to YOUR cause than not. It seems to me that this is really more about an ego problem with Kevin and Eric and a turf war as "GATEKEEPERS" of the no virus theory and germ theory than exposing me as a fraud. I will leave the decision making up yo you. If you go after me, it will hurt you, not me. It will hurt your reputation as petty egotistical people who cannot handle competition. Sorry to put it that bluntly, but i think it is time to speak bluntly. Take care.

[Quoted text hidden]

I'm sorry about Eric

Christine Massey <cmssyc@gmail.com>

Mon, Aug 29, 2022 at 7:28 PM

This is not about gatekeeping or competition, it's about being responsible about the information we put out. Your claims are earth-shattering, so it's all the more important to make sure they are rock-solid before we disseminate them.

The focus of my FOI newsletters is very tight for that exact reason. I don't want to put out claims that I'm not certain I can back up.

I lost my job in 2020 for refusing to wear a mask and lived in my mother's unfinished basement for the last 1.5 years because of my determination to expose this fraud. I'm basically homeless at the moment, staying with a friend. I haven't received a donation in weeks.

I am not in this for glory or ego or my reputation. I have a son and don't want to leave the world in such a messed-up state, for his sake.

Same reason I worked to end water fluoridation for the decade prior to covid, while being called every name in the book. All of my colleagues have wanted to embrace your story and work with you, and that is what would happen if you would simply put their minds at rest re your PhDs.

Christine

No response from Poornima

Fw: Mike from ViroLIEgy.com

Mike Stone [REDACTED]
To: Christine Massey [REDACTED]

Fri, Sep 2, 2022 at 2:34 PM

This is an email I sent Poomima after Eric's article came out. She never responded.

From: Mike Stone [REDACTED]
Sent: Tuesday, August 30, 2022 12:37 PM
To: [REDACTED]
Subject: Mike from ViroLIEgy.com

Hi Poomima

This is Mike from ViroLIEgy.com. I wanted to reach out as it seems things have become a little contentious between you and others within an email group I participate in. I understand from some communications that you felt grilled by Eric in his pre-interview and also threatened by inquiries into you past education, work experience, and credentials. It is unfortunate if our communications with you have come across in such a manner. No one wants to claim you as a fraud and we are in fact holding out hope that the work you have done is legitimate as it would be a great boost to our collective cause.

Please understand that our attempts to vet you are based upon obtaining verification before promoting your work. As you have set your credentials and experience as a central component to the credibility of much of what you present, we need to verify this before we would be able to jump on board. We want nothing more than to come together as a unified front. However, there are some definite questions and concerns we would love to address with you and resolve in order to move the conversation forward. Please do not see this as a threat or attempt to discredit/defame you as that is definitely not the intention. We really need to be able to verify as much as we can as we would be doing a disservice to ourselves and everyone else without doing our due diligence. I hope that we can all get together and discuss this in the interest of becoming a united front. Thanks for understanding and also for promoting my blog in your presentations. It is greatly appreciated. 😊

-Mike

No response from Poornima